'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Human beings are funny people.

* * * *

There are many persons who wouldn't "risk their lives in an airplane for all the money in the world," yet they will travel down the main highway at sixty miles an hour, disregard oncoming traffic and risk their lives every minute to save five seconds of time that is not valuable to anyone.

* * * *

These same persons who refuse to go up in the air may often be the same drivers who race a train to a crossing and win by a hair's breadth.

* * * *

Yet they do not think that this practice is dangerous.

* * * *

Airplanes do crash and kill persons. As long as there is a human being at the controls of the machine there is always the chance of an error that may prove fatal.

* * * *

Automobiles do collide and kill persons. As long as there is a human being at the controls of the machine there is always a chance of an error that may prove fatal.

* * * *

A majority of the airplane accidents that were investigated by the U. S. government revealed that an error in judgment on the part of the pilot caused the crash.

* * * *

Stunting pilots are responsible for a large number of accidents.

* * * *

* * * *

There was a flaw in his machine. As a result when he dived from the top of the loop, his wings left the fuselage and he was dashed to earth 4000 feet below—killed instantly.

* * * *

There was absolutely no need for such an accident. The pilot had no occasion to stunt his plane in that dangerous manner.

* * * *

Of course stunt flying plays an important part in aviation. Through performance of these stunts the pilot learns to control his plane.

* * * *

But there was absolutely no occasion for the dangerous outside loop stunt. There isn't a plane built that will accidently go into an outside loop

* * * *

But within a few years "flying will be on the ground." In other words, the people will be so accustomed to airplanes that they will fly them in the same manner that they drive machines.

* * * *

But in the meantime: Pilots will attempt to thrill the crowds—and sooner or later he's coming down with a crash amidst flaming headlines.

NOTE TELLS OF BOY'S DEED

SAN JOSE, July 18.—"I'm going to commit suicide. You'll find my body down by the warehouse."

Penning this farewell note, Frank DeLapp, 13 year old San Jose youth today took his life with the same revolver his father, Leo DeLapp had told him to get rid of, rather than part with the treasured weapon.

Thinking the note was a hoax, the father went to a San Jose newspaper where his son had a newspaper route.

Body Found

Upon failing to find young Frank, the elder DeLapp apprehensively went to the place indicated in the death note—a warehouse about a block from the family home.

The body of the boy was there, partially covered by debris, with a bullet wound through the heart.

Lying between his knees was the treasured revolver.

News of the tragedy is being kept from the mother, who is sick in a hospital.

Family Quarrel

DeLapp discovered last night his son was in possession of a .22 calibre revolver.

He talked to the youth telling him of the penalty for carrying concealed weapons and the law against discharging them in the city limits.

Although the youth was loathe to give up the revolver, his father was adamant and insisted he get rid of the weapon.

DeLapp last saw his son alive this morning when he departed for work.

Pens Note

When his father had left for his place of business, young DeLapp took the revolver to his back yard and proceeded to practice marksmanship.

Neighbors berated the boy and demanded he quit the bombardment.

Disconsolate, the youth went into the house, penned his farewell note, and shortly after took his life with the weapon that meant more to him than life.

POSSE FINDS SLAYER BODY

OREGON, City, Ore., July 18—UP—The body of Charles Maier, 69, was found today by Sheriff Mass, floating in the Molalla river about three quarters of a mile below the Maier farm.

Maier had been hunted since last Monday when he shot and killed Andrew Nelson, about 40, in a quarrel over a calf which belonged to Nelson and had strayed to Maier's farm.

The sheriff was led to the body by buzzards which were floating around and around over the water below the Maier farm.

Creeping slowly through the underbrush in order not to frighten the birds, the sheriff and a few of his deputies discovered the object of their search. It was floating upright in the water with the head just below the surface caused by rubber boots which Maier was wearing, filling with water.

NO RELIEF IS IN SIGHT TODAY

CHICAGO, July 18.—UP—Chicago's millions sweltered tonight in a heat wave which broke an all time record shortly before sundown when official thermometers touched 98.

The hottest July 18 here previously was in 1912 when a temperature of 95 was recorded.

A scorching sun beat down all day, melting asphalt, collars and complexions. Dry winds veered in from the southwest, blistering paint, noses and automobile tires. The combination of sun and hot wind virtually wilted the city's inhabitants.

Midwest Hit

Chicago was not the only sufferer or even the worst. The heat rolled over almost the whole midwest, bringing prostrations and damaging crops as it went.

The mercury reached 102 degrees in Des Moines, Iowa, while a glittering sun beat down on corn crops already badly in need of rain over most of the state. The growing corn wilted and dropped in the fields which have been visited during the last month with only one-fifth the normal amount of rainfall.

Farmers again were forced to abandon work during the day and

IGO SAVED FROM FIRE

REDDING, July 18.—UP—After a twelve hour fight by more than 100 men, a forest fire that threatened the historic mining town of Igo was extinguished late today.

Before the flames were subdued, however, they had swept bare 1100 acres of land on the C. W. Keininger plantation and Kingsbury farm, both dangercusly close to Igo.

Rangers and volunteers battled the flames with what chemical extinguishers and water was available, but wet sacks and shovels were the principal resources of fire fighters.

MOONEY, BILLINGS PARDON PLEA REHEARING DEMANDED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—UP—The state supreme court was asked today to rehear the application of Warren K. Billings for pardon, the petition offering new evidence of John MacDonald as the basis for such action.

MacDonald is expected to reach here Monday from Baltimore, where he made an affidavit that he gave perjured testimony as a prosecution witness in the trials of Billings and Tom Mooney, who were convicted on charges of causing the Preparedness Day bomb disaster here which claimed 10 lives in 1916.

The petition for a rehearing, 8000 words long, was filed by Edwin V. McKenzie, attorney.

An early hearing was asked, the petition setting out that "it is said that MacDonald is ill: that we know there is no means of holding him in California against his will."

The supreme court, which alone has the power to recommend to the governor the pardon of a prisoner who has twice been convicted, recently refused to make such a recommendation in Billings' case. MacDonald has been located since that opinion was handed down.

Hindenburg Is Dictator Of Germany

BERLIN, July 18.—UP—Germany entered a 90-day period of government by decree—a "financial dictatorship"—today when, following persistent defiance to the government's tax program, President Paul Von Hindenburg dissolved the Reichstag.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, given dictatorial powers by the president's action, immediately announced general elections would be held September 4, and the political parties plunged at once into their campaigns.

The president's action in dissolving the Reichstag, anticipated during the increasing tension of the past two days, came as the climax of a week's maneuvering during which Dr. Bruening sought to get the Reichstag to pass his tax program seeking to raise sufficient funds to meet the 1930 deficit, which, under present taxes, he estimated at about $115,000,000.

PROBE OPENS IN 12 DEATHS

LIVERMORE, July 18.—UP—Men who work under the ground to furnish the City of San Francisco with water from the Hetch Hetchy project filed in a steady procession here tonight through the temporary headquarters of federal, state and San Francisco officials investigating the death of 12 men in a blast of the Mitchell tunnel Thursday.

All the bodies had been recovered tonight but investigators were waiting for an accumulation of gas to be cleared from the bore before making an inspection of the death cavern.

Rescue squads that had gone 800 feet below the surface of the earth to recover the bodies of the victims said that they marveled that 21 men working at the opposite end of the tunnel from which the explosion occurred escaped with their lives. They said tram cars and machinery had been torn to pieces almost beyond belief. One man was overcome by gas but regained consciousness soon after being brought to the surface.

It was revealed at a meeting of city officials that the tragedy might have been averted if compressers and pumps had been installed sooner. This equipment had just arrived from the east when the explosion occurred and was forcing fresh air into the shaft five hours after the disaster.

M. M. O'Shaughnessy, city engineer, said he had no thought at all of anything in the way of safety devices that might be used on the project and are not in use.

"Not a dollar is being spread," he said, in explaining that he did not believe there would be a recurrence of the accident.

Unemployment In S. F. Small

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—UP There were only 21,276 persons out of jobs in San Francisco at the time of the last census, figures released today by Thomas A. Maloney, local census supervisor, revealed. Although this seems a large number, it is actually quite small, comprising but two percent of the population.

BANDIT BODY TO BE SENT HERE

CANON CITY, Colo, July 18.—UP—George J. Abshier and then Howard L. Royston, were executed on the gallows of Colorado penitentiary tonight.

They paid the supreme penalty for their part in the Lamar bank robbery murders of May, 1928 for which their leader, Ralph Fleagle, was hanged last Thursday night.

Abshier was hanged at 9:40 p. m. He was pronounced dead 13 minutes later.

Men Strangled

Royston entered the death room a half hour later. The trap was sprung at 10:37 p. m. and he was pronounced dead at 10:52.

Physicians said the two men strangled to death.

Warden Francis E. Crawford told the two men during the early evening they would have to decide who would be first to die.

Abshier First

After a few seconds of consultation, Abshier stepped forward and said he would enter the death chamber first.

At 9 p. m., Warden Crawford read the death warrant to the doomed men. Both asked that the execution not be held before 9:30 p. m.

After reading of the death warrant, Royston was taken to the prison hospital and dressed in the customary death suit.

Body At Morgue

Abshier was dressed in his cell. Abshier's body was taken to the Canon City morgue after the hanging of Royston.

Fifteen minutes later the body of his partner joined his.

Abshier undoubtedly will be buried on "Woodpecker Hill" near the

COUNCILMEN IN BATTLE

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—UP—The signt of a city councilman and a sergeant-at-arms of the city fathers grappling in anger around the chamber broke the calm of a sultry afternoon for other councilmen today.

The trouble started when Councilman Evan Lewis refused to sit down during a debate and Sergeant at-Arms George Daniels, after a weary look at the thermometer, decided it was his duty to make Councilman Lewis take a seat.

The pair pulled and tugged at each other for several minutes. Councilman Lewis successfully breaking every hold Daniels locked on available portions of the solon's body.

When it was all over, Councilman Lewis was still standing up although both contestants were puffing.

Questioned by reporters the battling councilman said:

CHICAGO CUBS CUT ROBINS' LEAD

By UNITED PRESS

NATIONAL LEAGUE:

The Chicago Cubs cut Brooklyn's National league lead to a single game Friday, defeating the Robins, 6 to 2, and now have an opportunity to gain a virtual tie for first place by taking the final game of their series Saturday.

Home runs by Wilson, Beck and English and air tight pitching by Sheriff Fred Blake gave the Cubs their victory. Blake limited the Robins to five hits, Bisschett's home run in the sixth providing the only Brooklyn runs.

New York's Giants rallied to score five runs in the ninth and defeated St. Louis, 8 to 7. The victory increased the Giants' lead over the Cards in the race for third position to three full games.

The Cincinnati Reds continued their sensational comeback and pounded out a 13 to 6 triumph over the Phillies. The Phils pounded May and Johnson to keep in the running during the early innings but were held scoreless by Benny Frey for the last five sessions.

Pittsburgh's Pirates comebed three Boston pitchers for 16 hits and won their third straight game.

AMERICAN LEAGUE:

The Philadelphia Athletes and the second place Senators, both won their games, while the third place New York Yankees dropped another game behind the leaders.

Philadelphia pounded Braxton and Henry for 11 runs in the third and fourth innings and coasted to a 15 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Earnshaw held the Sox to seven safe hits.

Walter Johnson revamped his Washington lineup and the Senators turned in an 8 to 6 decision over the Cleveland Indians. The Indians outhit Washington but were unable to bunch their hits effectively except in the fifth when they tallied three times.

The St. Louis Browns climbed into seventh place, defeating the New York Yankees, 14 to 6. The Browns pounded four pitchers for 18 hits and scored in every inning but the sixth, while Sam Gray held the Yanks in check except for homers by Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Ruth's homer was his 33rd of the season and put him eight days ahead of his schedule in 1927 when he set his record of 60.

Mark Koenig, former Yankee shortstop, was the hero of Detroit's 7 to 6 victory over Boston. Koenig hit a home run in the fourth with two mates on base and saved the game with a sensational catch to start a triple play in the eighth. The Tigers made six of their runs in a fourth inning assault on Gaston.

Foxx Hits Two Homers To Aid A's Victory

CHICAGO, July 18.—UP—Pummeling Braxton and Henry in the fourth inning for ten hits and eleven runs, four of them homers, the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the White Sox, 15 to 1 today. It was the eighth straight victory for the A's.

Jimmy Foxx got two of the homers, his 24th and 25th of the season. His third inning c'out, off Braxton, bounced off the roof of the left field pavilion, believed to be the first ever to clear the second deck there. Ruth and Gehrig are the only batters whose blows have cleared the right field stand.

Foxx's fourth inning homer, off Henry, came with the bases full. It went into the right field stands. Cochrane and Boley got the other round-trippers.

Tucson Has Dust Storm

TUCSON, Ariz.—Tourists who have wondered how on earth Arizonians can leave the windows and doors of their homes closed when the mercury hovers above the 100 degree mark, would have ceased wondering had they been here recently.

For Tucson was visited by the first summer dust storm and those newcomers or careless housewives who went shopping and left the windows and doors open, returned to find their silverware, curtains and other household furniture and utensils covered with an eighth of an inch of desert dust.

These summer dust storms often carry wind velocity sufficient to blow down trees and play havoc in general with the landscape. Often they are accomapnied by downpours of rain.

MAJORS DEFIED BY COAST LOOP

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—UP—Directors of the Pacific Coast league defied a recent ultimatum of major leagues and cast an unanimous vote against the draft agreement proposed by the big circuits at a special meeting here today.

Officials of the American and National league, meeting in Chicago last week, decided that unless minor leagues agreed to accept the draft they would refuse to buy players from the smaller leagues after this season.

Charley Graham, vice president of the Pacific Coast league at the meeting of three Class AA leagues at Chicago August 5 to discuss the draft problem.

LEGION TEAM WILL MEET BERKELEY

The Richmond American Legion juniors, titlists of Contra Costa, will tangle with the Berkeley Legion champions of Alameda county, this afternoon at Lincoln Park in Alameda, at two o'clock, in the first of a series of games for the eastbay title.

Plenty of hard work and errorless baseball will have to be done by the local youngsters if they expect to come out on top of their series of contests with Berkeley. The Berkeleyans have made an extraordinary record in county competition. They won nine straight games, and have gained a total of 117 runs to 14. The pitching of Stevens, LaLanne and Shoemaker has been poison to the opponents of the Berkeley nine, while their hitting has singled them out as one of the hardest-slugging outfits in the eastbay.

Richmond also boasts one of the best junior teams that have graced a local diamond. They have won six straight contests, and have collected 76 runs to 10. The batting average of the team is around .400. Reno Passoni and Gordon Lemon have been doing stellar chucking for the locals. Passoni has fanned an average of a little over 11 per game, and has allowed an average of five hits and two runs each contest. Lemon has whiffed 11 per game and allowed six hits.

Six new song hits of unusual appeal and charm are to be heard in Ramon Novarro's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring talking picture, "In Gay Madrid" which will open tomorrow at the Fox-California theater.

Five world famous concert and popular composers combined in creating these striking musical numbers especially for Novarro's splendid singing voice. They are used in conveying a tuneful interpretation of the plot of the Spanish romantic classic from which the picture was screened under Robert Z. Leonard's direction.

Chorus of 50 Voices

In several of these numbers Novarro is aided in heroic rendition by a massed chorus of fifty trained voices as well as lilting orchestral support, a musical blending of exuberant proportions. The tender love scenes are sung by Novarro with only guitar accompaniment as a tinkling background.

Dorothy Jordan plays opposite Novarro in the picture and the supporting cast includes Lottice Howell, Beryl Mercer, Nancy Price, Claude King, William V. Mong, Herbert Clark, Eugenia Besserer and David Scott.

The picture is based upon the romantic Spanish classic by Alejandro Perez Lugin. It was adapted for the talking screen by Bess Meredyth, Salisbury Field and Edwin Justus Mayer.

It is Novarro's second all-talking and singing picture, his first having been "Devil May Care," in which Miss Jordan also was leading lady.

Also Harry Langdon in "The Big Kick."

BEAU BANDITS NOW SHOWING AT FOX

"Powder River, Let 'em Buck!"

Doggone if it won't be like old times down to the Fox-California theater today, with all them hard-ridin' pistol totin', leather-clawin' RKO cowboys gallopin' across the talkin' screen.

'Beau Bandit" is the pitcher, and they've got this here handsome movie feller, Rod La Rocque dressed up in the main part awearin' one of the purtiest sombreros that was ever cocked over a shootin' eye. And Mitchell Lewis, the dangdest lookin' cutthroat, ever a follerin' Rod aroun' bristlin' like a porcupine with shootin' irons.

Lambert Hillyer, the hombre that directed, certainly knows his he-men actors, after all them pitchers he made with Bill Hart, Tom Mix and Harry Carey. He's wise to locations, too, judgin' from the miles of greasewood and Joshua trees agin' a backgroun' of mountains piled on top of each other.

But the regular treat is the little blonde gal, Doris Kenyon, who rides all over the place playin' old Ned with the fellers' hearts, and singin' "Just a Little Kiss," as if her heart was bustin'. She looks like she just naturally growed up in the saddle and boots.

Speakin' of sheriff's posses, I've seen many, but none as pictorial as Walter Long's gang. All my friends like Ken Cooper, the beatin'est trick roper who ever rid out of South Dakoty, Hank Potts, Bob Erickson, Gordon Jones, Buff Jones, Walt Robbins, Ben Corbett, bronco bustin' fools, are in the posse.

And when old Bill Patton let out that favorite war whoop of his'n, "I'm a lone wolf and it's my night to howl!" "I'm a ring-tailed snorter and I can lick my weight in wild cats!" I couldn't stand it no longer. I riz up in my seat and hollered back:

"Powder River! Let 'em Buck!"

Also Charlie Chase in "Whispering Whoopee."

BODY OF BABE FOUND HERE

Police are today investigating the finding of the body of a prematurely born baby in the bay at Kozy Cove on the shores of Richmond yesterday afternoon.

According to information from the coroner's office, where the body was taken, the infant had been in the water only a few hours before it was found by four boys who were swimming in the cove.

The body was wrapped in a newspaper and had been placed in a sack which was weighed with a small rock. Police were working on the theory that the bundle had been thrown from a passing ferry boat.

The body was found by Gregory Solich, 9, of 333 Tewksbury avenue; Phillip Carrera, 10, of 88 Railroad avenue; Conseption Gonzales, 12, of 223 Contar Costa avenue, and Salvador Gonzales, 10, of the same address.

ASHES OF AIR MAIL PILOT SCATTERED

LOS ANGELES, July 18—UP—As dusk was settling over the mountains along Maury Graham's air mail run today, the courageous war pilot and skillful flier of the United States mails took off on his last flight.

Over the route he flew so often in the past few years, Fred Kelly No. 1, Graham's best friend, guided a Western Air Express plane toward Salt Lake City.

Somewhere enroute Kelly's friendly hands reached for a tiny urn entrusted to him as the mail was loaded. The urn was opened and Maury Graham's ashes were offered to the mountain winds.

Last Rites

The final rites for the dead flier were at the wish of Mrs. Graham, who with her two small children, attended simple funeral services this afternoon at Wee Kirke o' the Heather in Forest Lawn Memorial cemetery.

The services were intoned jointly by the Christian Scientist church and the Masonic order.

Brother pilots of the Western Air Expres paid their final tribute to Graham in an impressive air maneuver to a war pilot and mail flier. They soared their planes high into the air, cut the motors, and glided in silence for about a minute.

Died in Crash

Graham, one of the pilots who found the Lost Battalion in the World war, crashed in a mountain section of Utah last January 10, while flying his Los Angeles to Salt Lake air mail route in a deadly blizzard.

After locking up his valuable cargo of mail, Graham turned into the snow storm to seek civilization. He died of starvation and exposure about five miles from the wreck of his plane. The body was found by a posse Wednesday night.

His Job Is Aiding Eels

NEWCASTLE, Emlyn England—To the many strange jobs in the world, add the one of J. Morgan Rees, a fisherman.

He helps young eels over a waterfall at Cenarth. During May and June millions of them enter the River Teify from the breeding grounds in the Atlantic and all goes well until they encounter the barrier of Cenarth falls.

Here is where Rees' job begins and ends. He weaves ropes of long grasses and reeds and hangs them over the projecting rocks near the bank. The elvers swarm up the ropes and enter the clam waters and Rees' job is done.

Canary Bird Made Personal Item

SAN FRANCISCO — Heretofore called a lot of things, depending on the point of view, canary birds have now entered the category of "personal baggage."

Air Show To Be Held At Chicago

CHICAGO.—Chicago, hub of the nation's railroad transportation becomes also the hub of aerial traffic this summer when the tenth anniversary Aeronautical Sweepstakes—the National Air Races—are held at the newly constructed Curtiss-Reynolds airport from Aug. 23 to September 1.

The 10-day period of aerial competition brings to Chicago for the second time the 'Olympiad of the Skies." In 1911, when aviation was in its infancy, Grant park on the Lake front, was the scene of the National Air meet.

Then a mere handful of planes were in the competition. A contestant seated himself on a narrow seat, with the pusher egnine of his none too stable craft, and trusted to luck to carry him into the air. Once in the heavens, careening about at 45 or 50 miles an hour, he prayed for a safe and easy landing.

Thousands of planes will attend this year's meet—slim, streamline craft, many of them capable of flying through the air at better than 200 miles an hour. Today's pilot does not trust to luck to make a safe take-off or landing, but rides with science in the cock-pit.

Woman Who Killed Fifteen Is Hunted

LA PORTE, Ind., July 18—UP—Disappearance of Mrs. Belle Gunness, arch murderess in the early days of the century, remained steeped in mystery tonight despite a flurry of excitement over her reported discovery in Mississippi and then in Illinois.

Mrs. Gunness, who killed 12 men on her murder farm here before she vanished in 1908, first was said to have been indentified as a Mrs. J. V. Smith, of Gulfport, Miss. Officials there said that they had hoped to arrest the woman they believed was Mrs. Gunness but that she had fled the state. They criticized La Porte authorities for premature release of the information that she was in Mississippi.

Then, late today, Police in Peoria, Ill., arrested a Mrs. Jones V. Smith, from Gulfport, Miss., and held her for several hours as a suspect.

Woman Freed

She soon was released after O. P. Westervelt, Peoria attorney, had identified her as a respected citizen of Gulfport, in Peoria on a visit.

If Mrs. Gunness still is alive, she is past 70 years old, no longer the buxom woman who vanished from La Porte 22 years ago after officers had dug up 15 bodies on her farm.

She was regarded as one of the most notorious characters in the annals of American crime, while her disappearance was regarded as one of the nation's greatest unsolved mysteries.

May Be Dead

Old neighbors here doubt that she still is living.

She was charged with advertising in matrimonial magazines, thereby luring men to her home, pretending to marry them, insuring them, and then killing and burying them.

Tokyo Mayor Seeks Subsidy Payment

TOKYO,—Hidejiro Nagata, newly elected mayor of Tokyo, faces a difficult problem in the adjustment of municipal finance and has asked the minister of finance, Junnosuke Inouye, for early payment of a government subsidy of Yen 3,000,000 to the city to meet interest on the Tokyo reconstruction loan.

Inouye agreed to recommend the appropriation to the next session of the Diet provided the city carries out a promise to increase taxes and reorganize its finances.

Nagata is serving his second term as mayor.

POLICE DEFIED BY MOVIE ACTOR

HOLLYWOOD, July 18—UP—An early morning adventure in which John Bowers, film leading man, is said to have exchanged back-handed trade lasts with two Hollywood policemen on their shooting ability was to have an airing tonight in police court.

Officers Mead and Hammond of Hollywood station responded to a call that "some women are having target practice" in an exclusive neighborhood in the film colony.

The policemen, in their report declared they found a situation without much of a plot not lacking in dialogue and sound effects.

An expensive automobile was parked against an embankment, they declared, with actor Bowers in the back seat and two fair companions in the front compartment.

"Good morning," said Bowers to the officers, while the two women started to admire the sunrise.

Officers Mead and Hammond said they reached immediate decision to remove Bowers to the police station as he appeared inclined to indulge in more target practice with a revolver found in the car.

"He told us," the arresting officers said, "that he could beat us shooting upside down while we stood in the usual style. He said something about being the fellow who taught Billy the Kid how to shoot."

Bowers was charged with being drunk in an automobile and released on $150 bail with instructions to appear in night police court. The two fair companions of the actor were allowed to go free.

Bowers denied he was intoxicated and claimed the officers refused to allow him to take a sobriety test.

WOMAN SAW MURDER OF LINGLE

made toward solving the mystery.'

Publication of a copyright article by Harry T. Brundige, St. Louis Star reporter, concerning an interview in Miami, Fla., with "Scarface Al" Caprone was another sensational development of the day.

Brundige, who charged recently that many Chicago newspaper reporters are allied with the underworld and who has promised to substantiate his charges before a grand jury here Tuesday, quoted Caprone as saying the Chicago police know who killed Lingle.

Al Talks

"The big beer and bullet baron put his left arm around my shoulders," Brundige continued, "and with typical Latin affection squeezed me and said, 'Listen Harry, I like your face. Let me give you a hot tip. Lay off Chicago and the money-hungry reporters.

"You're right and because you're right, you're wrong. You can't buck it, not even with the backing of your newspaper, because it's too big a proposition.

Scribes Paid

"No matter what dope you have to give the grand jury the boys will prove you're a liar and a faker."

Brundige added that Capone said there was a number of newspaper men on his payroll and that Lingle got in financial trouble because of his love for gambling on horse races.

RIVERBANK,—A freak pig born with a litter of five perfectly normal brothers and sisters on a ranch near here had characteristics of several animal species.

Its snout was overdeveloped, being about three inches in length and shaped like an elephant, but sprouting from the middle of its forehead.

Its front feet were not cloven, but had five toes, the fifth having the appearance of a thumb.

Its ears also resembled an elephants, being large and floppy.

It had only three teeth, one on each side of its jaw and another in the middle.

It had only one eye, set below its peculiar snout.

The freak weighed three pounds and lived only a short time.

TREE SITTING TRY ENDED BY BEES

HOLLYWOOD, July 18—UP—There is a popular saying that everything and everybody eventually will come to Hollywood if Hollywood will only be patient and wait.

Well—it's come—this tree sitting craze, which until today was a monopoly held by the youth of the middlewest and southwestern states.

Salvatore Scarritta, 11-year-old stage and screen actor and son of S. C. Scarritta, prominent sculptor, is the youth who entered as the movie colony representative among the branch perchers.

Young Salvatore's sitting almost ended a few minutes after he started to sit when it was discovered that the tree he had selected was the favorite hunting ground for bees of the neighborhood.

Salvatore communicated his predicament to his ground crew and luckily there was a genius present. A fly swatter was sent to the boy and Salvatore routed the bees.

The boy's brother and sister and K. C. Beaton, prominent columnist, compose the ground crew.

A radio headset, plenty of books and a drawing board help the sitter enjoy life in the tree.

The usual things
IT IS DIFFICULT to imagine the world today without some of the things that make our living in it so pleasant and comfortable. How naturally we lift the telephone receiver, step into an automobile, and look for the news of the world in the newspaper — every day of our lives.
Another of these usual, invaluable things, accepted as part of the routine of existence, is the guidance given by the advertisements in this newspaper in supplying our wants from day to day. We read them. They help us to save time and money. And our lives go on — more easily and more fully.
Every day the advertisements suggest ways in which we can get things we want with the greatest possible satisfaction to ourselves. They tell us of new conveniences and comforts of which we would not otherwise have known. They help us to get down-to-the-dollar satisfaction. They assure us of proved values.
Advertisements are among the necessities today . . . read them regularly

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Home-Keeping Hearts—Not Necessarily Hands or Heads

NOW it is Mrs. Thomas A. Edison who broadcasts an ardent appeal to her countrywomen to "return to the business of home-making." Otherwise, she opines tragically, "the most vital institution of the country is threatened," the nation is undermined, and—horror of horrors—men are dissatisfied! Women who flock into outside business, according to the great inventor's wife, lose prestige in their own field, which is home-making—"a full-time job." Finally, she reminds her sex that "deep down in her heart every woman wants a home."

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Doubtless every woman does. Home-keeping hearts—we have a poet's word for it—are happiest. But what Mrs. Edison and other home-defenders of her school seem to forget is that home is a state of heart—rather than a technique of housekeeping. Even the poet said nothing about happiness being dependent on home-keeping hands—or heads.

There are many happy homes in the United States where the wife and mother bakes and brews (the latter since 1919!), scrubs and sews, combines the functions of purchasing agent, children's nurse and gracious hostess. Here is one way of being a good home-maker. It is not, however, the only way.

"Deep down in her heart every woman wants a home"—yes. But suppose she is a young woman in love with a young man earning a salary too small on which to marry and set up a domestic establishment. How can this young woman achieve a home more quickly—by eating out her heart for lonely years while her fiancé slowly achieves prosperity, or by marrying him at once, pooling her salary with his, pooling his labor with hers in making a two-or-three-room home as full of love, loyalty and happy comradeship as any house-and-garden-and garage? That is a way of home-making which, nace Mrs. Edison, is achieved by many young business and professional women.

MRS. EDISON'S own husband, by a curious coincidence, has done much to make the new-fashioned home which is, despite Mrs. Edison's assertion to the contrary, a part-time job for the fifty-fifty wife. Has she not electricity to help her do her work? If she be childless and living in a small city apartment, with all the new electrical housekeeping devices at her command, how can "the business of home-making" consume all her time and energy?

Brides who have completed the courses at the Home Making Centre of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs report that they do not spend more than four hours a day keeping house. Among recent graduates of the Centre are a young lawyer, a secretary and a teacher, all of whom expect to continue their jobs after marriage. Far be it from us to say that such a course of action is compulsory for the modern young wife—we are not dogmatic about how home can be made happy!—but, on the other hand, home-makers of an older generation, using a different technique, should not assert that theirs is the way, the truth, the light—the only one!

Many women, too, who work outside the home as well as in it, are driven by sheer necessity. The Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, in studies of working women throughout the United States, finds that the great throngs in shop and factory and unskilled labor must earn if their homes are to exist at all; if there is to be a roof over the children's heads, food for them to eat, shoes for them to wear to school. Home-making, in Mrs. Edison's use of the word, could not possibly be the exclusive pursuit, the full-time job of these women.

IN MANY cases, as Miss Martha L. Connole, director of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, has just pointed out in Chicago, "for the woman working there is some man—father, husband, son, brother or other male relative, dead or alive—who has fallen down on the job of providing for her support."

In many other cases, especially where wives and mothers are involved, husbands and fathers do their best, earn all they can—but do not earn enough to keep their womenfolk's "prestige" by keeping them in comfort at home.

Many women—we are one—are getting awfully tired of this running argument about how a married woman should do her work. Why not leave it to her to decide? Home-making, to anybody but a materialist, is no matter of polishing silver and cooking every dish served at dinner. It is the creation, in both husband and wife, of a sense of unity, of peace, of happiness. The home-staying woman has one way of working toward this end, the fifty-fifty wife has another way. What does it matter, if the end be achieved?

It is the fashion to laugh at the Victorians and especially at their poets, yet one of the latter perfectly justified the modern, fifty-fifty wife, when he wrote:

"New occasions teach new duties; time makes ancient good uncouth."

And now, according to a recent news story, it's a New York HUSBAND who breaks up a little game by complaining to the police because his WIFE has been losing so much money at poker.

TO A JUG IN WATER-COLOR

Brown of a chocolate soldier,
Sheen of a clouded moon,
Curves that swell majestically,
Then fade away in gloom,

Has he, who drew you, glasses
Of a rose-tint hue;
Or a beauty shop for brown things—
And will he paint me, too?

"A Little Lower Than the Angels" at Last

Twenty-year-old Winifred Brown of Manchester, England, wins the King's Cup air race around Great Britain against a field of men. Amy Johnson makes a record-breaking flight from England to Australia, the Commerce Department announces that there are now 205 licensed women pilots in the United States, Miss Helen G. MacLeod of Boston is married in a plane half a mile up—truly, women are flying high!

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

I HAVE no adding machine handy, but I have mentally calculated that there are 10,000,000 women in this world ranging in age from eighteen to seventy who "want to write."

The trouble with the most of these "would be" or "going to be" writers is that they never begin, or they do not finish when they do begin. If these same people took jobs in stores or became stenographers they would go to work at the same time every day and they would stop when the time came, but the incipient writers never look upon writing as a job or a profession and they think they can write "when they feel like it."

If this happens to catch the eye of some one who "wants to write," I suggest a casual look at the newsstands of to-day and then further recommend that a regular hour each day be set apart for real, honest-to-goodness WORK and in the language of a well known advertising agency: "Keeping everlastingly at it brings success."

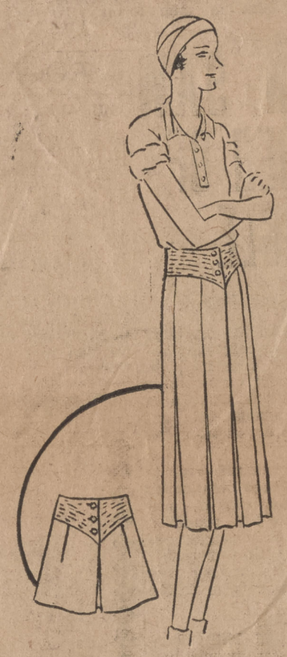
She's in Shorts for the Courts

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930



THREE-PIECE TENNIS OUTFIT, CONSISTING OF TUCK-IN-SHIRT, SHORTS AND SKIRT OF COTTON MADRAS.

EVERYBODY'S wearing them. Well, after all, only the softly rounded figures and those that are thin play tennis. It's an agile game and you have to be more or less lithe to skip around and handle a racquet adequately. Then, if you are that, the shorts that they wear and the things that go with them tempt you to get out of your lounge lizard ways if you are that sort and to join the ranks of the athletic and hearty.

The clothes for the game are distinct and for that purpose alone. If you are a tennis girl everybody knows perfectly well that you're not going out to play golf and that by the clothes that you wear.

Shorts are the rule—tiny B. V. D. pants — that's what they are. Of course when going to and from the courts you have a skirt made to button on the yoke of the shorts with nickel buttons, or to wrap around. And with the polo shirt top you are just as much in a dress for the time being as any of the spectator sisters. But, once in the game, off comes the skirt, round the head wraps the white linen or cotton handkerchief which you have carried along, and you are ready for action in all of its modern sense.

The very smartest material of them all, to my way of thinking, is cotton madras—you know that silky cottony stuff from which boys' best shirts are made? The shorts are plain and the skirts are pleated in wide pleats all the way round.

Others are made of standard or waffle pique (that is a pique of blocks instead of stripes) and still others—a product of this season—of cotton, or, if you wish to be 'sclusive and 'spensive, not to say extremely comfortable, linen mesh.

Then there are those made of cotton shirting materials in fine stripes of green, gray or blue and white—these for those who, for some reason or other, have a black against all white. But really all white is so good that it seems a shame not to stick to it faithfully. It is smartest for every occasion this season and most certainly for tennis.

You can vary the sameness all you like, but if you are clever you will do it with scarfs and accessories. Match them up in colors that give to your own personality that aura in which it likes best to bask, and you have succeeded in ringing in your feminine touch in so subtle a manner that no one will suspect you of departing even for a fleeting moment from the strictly sporting interests of the game.

For those whose figures are not quite straight and perfect enough to stand the simple plainness of the classic shorts there is another style pleated in the trousers so that they look like a very full, very short skirt. These are more slenderizing, as the advertisements have it, and there is just a chance—a good chance really—that they may be more becoming. Try them and have it out with yourself in silence in front of your mirror before you leap in and make a purchase which you may live to regret.

One-piece dresses, if you like silk, are in perfectly good form for tennis, and if the shorts are not your stuff, then by all means have one of these. They are perfectly simple in design made with long side pleats or inverted box pleats and are belted in at the waistline with narrow belts. They are done in all of the cotton stuffs, too, and the silk ones especially are fine in the pastel colors if, after all that's been said, you prefer to dress that way on the courts.

For cooler climates and cooler weather shorts of lightweight flannel please those who know their tennis style, and these are best, I think, in white or yellow. You can have a jacket to go with them so that when you are all hot and wet after the game, when the white polo coat is too heavy and hot, there will be something handy that is suitable to throw over your shoulders. Pay attention too, to the angora suits if you are hunting something with more warmth, or the angora sleeveless, pull-on sweaters with flannel skirts.

ONE-PIECE MODEL OF DOTTED CREPE DE CHINE.

For shoes, white ghillies are the thing—all white or sometimes with colored stripes over the vamp. They are worn with flesh colored lisle stockings, or often the legs are left bare and little tumble-down socks of lisle or wool are worn under the shoes. These are more sporty and better with the shorts, while the long stockings go with the dresses.

Berets are good for the courts as they are for every other purpose—notably the simplest of them all, the original basque beret. But for protection from the glare of the sun the stitched white linen or felt hats are recommended. They are quite sporty looking and often far more satisfactory as they are soft enough to be thrown around regardless, only to be picked up again and worn with real smartness.

CANVAS GHILLIES ARE VERY POPULAR. WITH LISLE "TUMBLE-DOWN" SOCKS, OXFORDS OF BUCKSKIN ARE WORN.

A Swimming Party

FOR the swimming party, invite the guests to your home and request each one to bring a bathing suit. As guests arrive, direct them to the check room. This may be a corner of the porch. Bathing suits are checked here and taken to the beach with the rest of the luggage. The checks are cardboard life savers. Provide towels for those who have not brought one. A cool drink and cookies may be served at the home.

A swimming party may be given on the shore of a lake, a riverside or the sea beach, and it would be nice to go in automobiles. Before starting on the ride to the "swimming hole" direct the men to go into one room and girls into another, then tell them to find one hidden lifesaver. The two who have found lifesavers tied with the same color ribbon are to be traveling companions to the beach. A small safety pin attached to the ribbon bow will enable the guests to wear the souvenir life savers.

Arriving at the beach, let the guests enjoy a swim, and the thoughtful hostess will have a rubber ball and one or more inflated water toys to amuse her guests. In the mean time a beach fire is being built, the hostess having provided the kindlings for this.

After the swim, all should lend a hand in preparing the eats. Have a number of frying pans to fry the fish that were packed in ice in a crock and the cold sliced potatoes. Have salad packed in individual paper cups. Of course you will have pickles, olives, rolls or buttered bread sandwiches, coffee or cocoa and cake or cookies. Punch may be served from thermos jugs. A few cushions and camp chairs should be provided for those who prefer these.

As no one must go in the water until one hour after a meal, games may fill in the interim. The turtle exercise makes an amusing race for the men. Another game is to place a bottle on a camp stool and contestants are to throw heavy cardboard life savers over the bottle, quoits fashion. Allow five points for a ringer, and at end of game present a bottle of ginger ale to the winner and a package of candy as the booby prize. The clever hostess will arrange sufficient contests and games to fill in the hour, then she may introduce water sports such as a duck race, egg race, candle race, &c. Those who do not swim may act as starters, timers and judges.

A general as-you-please water frolic may follow; then bathing suits are changed and the guests assemble around the beach fire. The hostess has provided long, forked sticks and plenty of marshmallows, and while roasting and enjoying these stories are swapped, songs are sung and individual stunts are in order.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

The kitchenette cook may be at a disadvantage during the winter, when heavier and more elaborate dinner dishes are favored, but in the summer, when lighter foods seem more palatable, she can compete with any housewife.

Fish assumes an important part in summer menus, and salmon is particularly popular during the warm weather, a popularity that persists despite the fact that one expert after another proclaims that it is good for us.

KAREN HOLLIS

Some housewives prefer to buy their whole salmon or salmon steaks at the fish market, but those who depend on the canned variety are at no disadvantage. Both in quality and in price the canned salmon is just as good, and frequently even better.

There are many delicious ways of serving salmon, either hot or cold, and to-day I am going to tell you about one of my favorites.

SALMON PUFFS

1 pound salmon (cooked or canned)
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash of paprika
3 eggs
½ cup bread or cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar

Remove all skin and bones from the salmon and shred it with a fork. Add butter, seasoning, lemon juice, and beaten egg and mix well. Butter baking cups and press the mixture into them. Set the cups in a pan of hot water, allowing the water to come two-thirds up the sides of the cups. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes.

Unmold and serve hot with caper sauce. This is also delicious served cold with mayonnaise into which has been beaten minced cucumber which has been marinated in mild vinegar.

THE TENNIS HAT IS OF STITCHED LINEN, AND THE SCARF IS A LARGE SQUARE OF COTTON, MONOGRAMMED.

You and Your Child

Inferiority Feelings

YOUNG children feel very small and incapable and perplexed in this adult world. When They are constantly reassured and encouraged they gradually overcome their inferiority feelings.

But how many unfortunate youngsters continually receive just the opposite treatment, and in consequence, grow smaller and smaller in their own estimation! "Give me that, you can't do it," "You're a blockhead," "You're too slow" are only a few of the disparaging and fault finding remarks that adults constantly fling at little children. And likewise, how often does one hear their faults and shortcomings recited to others!

Some youngsters are unfortunate enough to have a natural handicap, which adds greatly to their feeling of inadequacy. They may be handicapped physically, by a weak or sickly constitution, a deformity, or a sense defect, stammering or stuttering; or their handicap may be mental; they may not be as bright or as talented as their associates.

When a child is inferior, in one way or another, to his brothers and sisters, he suffers greatly. If we compare him with a more favored child we but add to his agony! One little girl I know had a very bright younger sister. These youngsters, although two years apart, were in the same class in school. The older child suffered so seriously from a sense of inferiority that her parents had to remove her to another school.

Children show their feeling of inferiority in very different ways. This feeling is most often expressed in shyness and seclusiveness. Some youngsters become sullen and insolent. Others, in an effort to hide their defect and gain some attention and praise, become great show offs. Still others, turn completely from what they do poorly and concentrate all their attention upon the things in which they can achieve distinction. Thus the boy with a physical handicap, refuses to go out and play and spends all his time studying. Perhaps the most serious way of reacting to a deep sense of inferiority, is to turn from the actual world to a world of dreams. Children who do this, are likely to run away from their contacts and problems more and more, and to spend most of their time day dreaming. They make up to themselves for their lack of success by dreaming of themselves as heroes!

Thus we see that inferiority feelings not only cause children great suffering, but they stunt the normal development of the young ones and prevent them from reaching well adjusted adulthood. It is our job to prevent the occurrence of a feeling of inferiority as much as we possibly can; and if it has already arisen, to help the child overcome it by giving him the chance to taste just as much actual success and recognition as possible.

TELLING THE WORLD

ANOTHER HERO TO WORSHIP

A BROCKTON, Mass, man has just eclipsed Shipwreck Kelly's world record for flagpole-sitting, which will thrill every red-blooded American. The following interview shows how the miracle was achieved:

Q. What outstanding thing does your flagpole record stand for?

A. It proves man's superiority over the flag. Old Glory is always hauled in at sundown.

Q. And what effect will your accomplishment have on the human race?

A. It will encourage other men to climb flagpoles. This in turn will stimulate people to shinny up telegraph poles, steeples, trees, &c., and this will stimulate robbing birds' nests.

Q. How does it feel to sit on a flagpole for twenty-eight days?

A. It was no different from sitting there four weeks.

Q. What inspired you to stay up there so long?

A. I was afraid if I came down I'd have to get my own meals.

Q. Will you state what was your severest hardship?

A. Yes. After the third day I had to fight off woodpeckers. They thought I was a branch of the pole.

Q. Any other hardships?

A. Well, one night the rain came down in sheets but I couldn't sleep between them.

Q. How did you break into the flagpole sitting game?

A. When I was engaged at my original trade as a house painter I developed the knack of going to sleep at the top of a ladder. As soon as I discovered this talent I resolved to develope it.

Q. What did you do after that?

A. On one occasion, after the family quarrel, I stayed all night in the top of an elm tree. This gave me my big idea, so I resolved to take up flagpole sitting as a profession. At first I only sat on them at half-mast.

Q. How did you become a full-fledged flagpole sitter?

A. I asked my backers for a 50 per cent. raise, so they pulled me up to the top.

Q. Do you ever get lonesome when you are flagpole sitting?

A. Yes, but there are always plenty of pigeons around. Moreover, when I think how lonesome Byrd got sitting near the South Pole, I buck up right away. Us heroes sort of inspire each other.

* * *

Q. Now that you have broken Shipwreck Kelly's record, what will happen?

A. Oh, Kelly will probably crawl up a pole and try to beat my figures. Then I'll shinny up another pole and beat his.

Q. How long do you estimate this rivalry will continue?

A. We will probably keep up sitting on flagpoles till one of us hatches out the gold ball at the top of the pole.

Q. What particular benefits have you enjoyed since you broke the flagpole sitting record?

A. You should see the swell offers I got. I had a chance to be permanent night watchman of Pike's Peak. And I was offered a life job in the crow's nest of the Leviathan. There are plenty of good jobs waiting for a champion flagpole sitter.

Q. What are your plans for the future?

A. I hope to clean up a fortune while I hold the championship. Then I look forward in my old age to sitting at the top of a flagpole in a Morris chair, with a pipe and good books at my side.

THIS AND THAT

"The Battle of Concord to Be Fought Over Again July 12."—Headline.

We suppose the first one ended in a foul.

Seven books will come out of Byrd's Antarctic expedition. And Russell Owen's expense account ain't going to be any short story, either.

More than 2,775,000 hot dogs were sold in Greater New York over the last week end. Or, if laid end to end, they would make as many links as there are Tom Thumb golf courses.

Mellon's son, Paul, will enter the publishing trade. And we hope he has as much success pushing out dollar books as Andy had floating those new $1 bills.

The Prince of Wales sounded well in that broadcast the other day, but not quite good enough to make one of our yeast cake or tooth-paste hours.

Senator Cole Blease, speaking in South Carolina, said: "Whenever the Constitution comes between me and the virtue of the white women of the South, to hell with the Constitution!"

That's the way a lot of us feel when the Constitution comes between us and the white mule of the South.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

ROYSTON, PAL HANGED IN EAST

prison. Royston's body will be sent early tomorrow to relatives in Richmond, Calif.

Conference Held

Royston and Abshier held their final conference with Warden Crawford in the warden's office at 4 p. m. They were accompanied by Chaplain Barrett.

They were composed but not at all the jolly, carefree fellows who had joked about death for weeks.

The change in them came when Royston stripped off the veneer of a reckless roustabout, confessed to Father Barrett that it was all put on 'for a show" and admitted he had wanted to make himself right with God all along.

Abshier Joked

Abshier, bespectacled little "professor" had not worn the armour of indifference quite so successfully as the careless Royston, also admitted he had been joking about his fate because it seemed "the best way to face the music."

They were penitent, humble and serious at the conference with the warden. They made no additional confession or admission of any kind, although a postal inspector of Pueblo was there, hoping they might reveal some information which would aid the government in solving a long list of federal crimes, including the bloody Denver mint robbery.

Both embraced the Catholic faith before they were led to the gallows.

Strange Parting

The parting of the two was strange in light of the career of crime they had led together.

As they embraced each other, Abshier said: "I will wait for you in the bosom of Christ." Royston replied; 'All right, I will be with you soon."

A final handshake and they parted.

No Last Words

The two men made a special request of Warden Crawford before they were taken into the gallows room-that they would not be asked to make a last statement.

As a result their period in the death room was in the midst of absolute silence, not a word being spoken by anyone, a sign indicating to the hangman when all was ready.

The body of Royston will be brought here late today to the Charles Ryan funeral home. Funeral services have not been set.

Lived Here

Royston leaves his wife, a brother and his mother who reside here in Richmond.

Abshier formerly resided here. His wife was a teacher at the Washington grammar school.

Highway Plans Discussed At Martinez Meet

An industrial highway from Antioch to Richmond and joining up with another projected highway following the bay shore from Richmond to San Jose was discussed for the first time at a meeting of Contra Costans Associated, held in Martinez.

According to E. H. Ward, chairman of the highways committee of the Contra Costans, details of the plans for the highway will be announced at the next meeting of the organization.

A report made by P. M. Sanford of Richmond, chairman of the industrial committee, stated that there were 80 major industries in Contra Costa county on Jan. 1 of this year, while the county has an annual output of $600,000,000 in products and an annual payroll of $27,000,000.

The new Shell plant near Pittsburg, the new Ford plant and new cannery in Richmond, and a brick manufacturing plant at Pittsburg will add to this output and payroll this year ,according to Sanford. He also stated that Contra Costa now holds third place in state industry.

Discussion was also held at the meeting of the Contra Costans on the new congressional reapportionment. The reapportionment committee, headed by O. K. Smith of Richmond and E. H. Ward, stated that an early conference of delegates from the counties of Solano Napa, Marin, and Yolo counties will be sought. These counties and Contra Costa county are included in one district under the new apportionment plan.

It is expected that these counties can meet the population requirement of 275,000 for a congressional district. Under this plan Sacramento and San Joaquin will be eliminated from the district, therefore meaning the loss to this district of Congressman Curry, who is from Sacramento county.

CLAIM JUMPER PROBED BY U. S.

INDEPENDENCE, July 18.—UP—Far up in a mountain range near the isolated little town of Ballarat a five year old mining feud was nearing a climax tonight.

At the scene were Deputy U. S. Marshall Martin Finn, Mrs. Mary Thompson, Harriet Thompson and Miss Orpha Hart, mining claim owners and about two-score of rough mountaineers—some of allies of the women and other classed by them as claim jumpers.

The women, in securing a temporary federal injunction against Deputy Sheriff Don Clair, W. D., and John Clair and others, said they were interfering with assessment work at the mine.

Sheriff B. A. McAfee of Inyo county said the country around the mine was too isolated for news to reach him.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—UP—Sam Moses, promoter, today was found guilty in Federal court of using the mails to misrepresent certain lands he alleged would be benefitted by Boulder dam, now under construction.

FILIBUSTERING OF TREATY CONTINUES

WASHINGTON, July 18.—UP—The pro-treaty majority in the senate tonight shut down the 12-hour day on the little band of senators who are trying to talk the naval pact to death.

With practically all hope gone, the opponents led by Senator Johnson, Rep. Cal., talked on and on wearily for the most part but with occasional outbursts of accusations.

Adjournment came at 11 p. m. after 12 hours of continuous session.

Hope Seen

The senate will meet tomorrow an hour earlier with administration men intending to force the opponents further to talk themselves out by another late night session.

Hope was expressed by some optimistic senators that the opposition would cave-in tomorrow, leaving the way open to immediate ratification of the treaty and final adjournment of the special session.

President Hoover helped this idea along by announcing his inability to pick the personnel of the new power and tariff commissions for three weeks at least. This means the senate will not have to remain longer for consideration and confirmation of these important new posts, which will be filled later.

Two more reservations by treaty opponents were added today to the six or seven already pending which the senate will vote down before taking its virtually certain ratification vote.

Johnson and Moses, Repn., N. H., the leaders of the "Battalion of Death" each unburdened himself of caustic speeches today and then the scholarly appearing Oddie, R., Nev., spoke for hours in his mild and conversational voice, also decrying the London naval treaty.

The additional six-inch gun cruisers provided this country by the treaty were compared by Moses to size 13 collars. His collars are about 15's. "It is as if a man should say to me 'take your own money and buy yourself a dozen 13-inch collars.'"

Moses protested against "the indecent haste" with which the administration insists on ratification and he charged President Hoover and Secretary Stimson have "seriously affronted the representatives of the American people" by placing the treaty before the senate for immediate action without "adequate" explanation.

Stand Gaff

The 60-odd senators here today appeared to be standing the gaff of the long sessions fairly well, although Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee planned to enter a Baltimore hospital tomorrow for a rest.

Johnson snapped today at the newlywed Smoot, Repn., Utah, who was speaking sotto voice while Johnson talked, demanding to know what the Utah senator was saying. In the exchange which followed Smoot bluntly said Johnson was filibustering. Johnson said the charge was "groundless' and said some of his colleagues demonstrated unfitness by their silence on the treaty.

Johnson's reservation would invalidate the treaty's provision for dividing cruisers into six-inch and eight-inch categories, leaving this country free to build fully within the tonnage limit in eight-inch gun ships.
